occupied to capacity and that the recruits there were restricted to quarters. The Andreas Hoferstrasse was blocked from sight by a board wall on 20 August. The entrance to the former court building was inside the restricted area. Numerous trucks were parked at the barracks installations west of the Schiesstattring, in addition to AT guns and mortars of an undetermined caliber. However, no tanks were seen there. Soviet troops bivouacked in tents in the municipal forest west of the railroad line. (2) Until 1 a.m. during the nights of 17 and 18 August, the noise of troops at combat practice was heard from the tank training site in the village of Witzendorf on the west perimeter of St. Foelten.

3.	On 18 August, 27 EM wearing black-bordered red epaulets drilled under the supervision of an officer in the former provincial insane asylum. Twelve more soldiers, wearing an undetermined service color, stood near an artillery piece which was obviously an AT gun. Twenty-

(1)	According to previous reports, it was believed that the 150th Tank Regt of the 95th Gds Mtz Rifle Div stationed at Camp Spratzern had left. The present report does not indicate whether the camp was reoccupied on 24 August 1951.  All motor vehicles observed there belong to the 95th Gas Mtz Rifle Div, including those seen at the barracks installation on Am Schiesstattring. Heither previous nor the present information furnishes a clear picture on the

(2)	The barracks installations on Am Schiesstattring, including the Rainer Raserne, cannot be seen from the outside and, therefore, no details on the actual occupation of these installations could be obtained.
(3)	Goepfritz residents stated that small units kent arriving and leaving during August 1951.	25X1A
